In any business, small or large, effective controlling is essential to ensure your operations are on the right track. The controller needs to merge data streams from all over the organization, whether it's HR, finance, sales, or R&D, in order to draw their conclusions.

Even in 2014, in many businesses this data is gathered by hand, perhaps with the help of a spreadsheet to crunch the numbers. As more and more data becomes available, controllers need to spend increasingly more time tracking and managing that data before being able to analyze it for the benefit of the business.
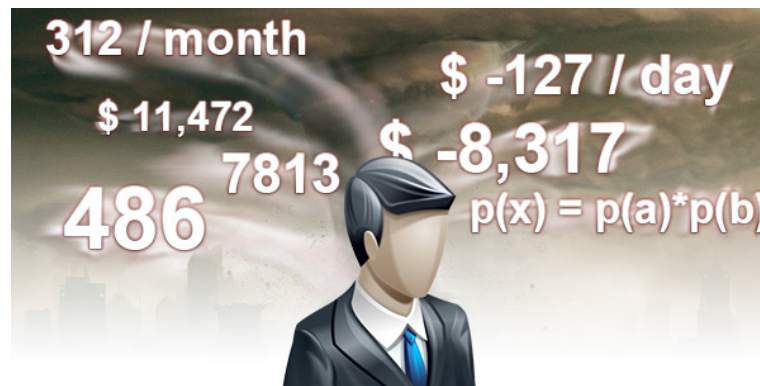

Using BellaDati, we can automate the whole data-gathering process. Whenever there's a change in one of the many data streams, BellaDati can fetch the latest data and automatically update your reports.

Don't waste your time gathering and managing data - with BellaDati, you can fully focus on gaining insights and making improvements to your business operations!
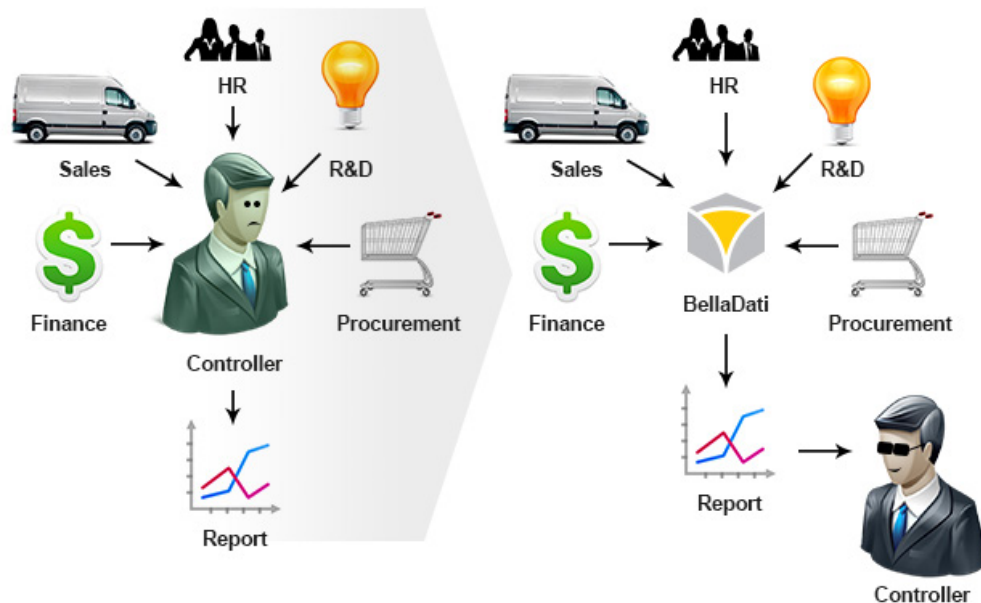

And that's not all! Often, you want to share your reports with others - perhaps other managers, your employees, or even your shareholders. By embedding BellaDati, this becomes easier than ever before!

Do you have an intranet portal accessible to your organization's management? Embed your reports and pass around the link; your analytics update automatically and require nothing more than a web browser to view!
